

Game Lore

When you were watching dream's youtube videos you got bored and wondered is there a world without dream? As you wondered a portal opened across the street, you didn't know where it led to but you didn't care so you walked towards the portal but then a wall of infected people with corona (not the beer) and they were coughing uncontrollably. But your curiosity got the better of you and risked your health to get in the portal.